#RebootingWebOfTrust is a collaborative event, what we call “design workshop”, held twice a year, where we bring together some of the top experts on decentralized identity to write 4-5 white papers over the course of 3 days.

We just completed the 4th #RebootingWebOfTrust last Friday here in Paris, and I would like to briefly share with you some of our preliminary results. I will also highlight for you some key papers from previous events, and call for participation in the next design workshop in Boston on October 3rd - 5th.
